The present invention relates to a compound of given formula (A) and the use of said compound. The relevant prior art document (EP 816375) to this invention discloses glycoconjugates of opioids. However, the compound of the present invention is not disclosed or suggested in the prior art document nor is it obvious over the prior art document. For example, the compounds of the instant invention possess sulfur containing chemical moieties, substituents or groups that are not present in the compounds of the prior art document.
